BANDITS INVADE RATTLESNAKE RIDGE, ATTEMPT A BANK ROBBERY. TOWNSPEOPLE LAY IN WAIT SHOOTOUT ENSUES, SURVIVORS ARE ARRESTED AND JAILED

MATAMORAS, PA, MAY 19, 2013

The townspeople defended their town of Rattlesnake Ridge as 20 gunslingers rode in and attempted to rob the bank. There would have been more in their gang but the uncertain weather played a role. The gunslingers were arrested but later released to come back again next month.

After the early sprinkles, it stayed cloudy and pleasant for the rest of the match. The stages were quick and we hope everyone liked them. The shotgun Stage (Stage 3) seemed to be a hit again as most enjoyed the variety. The flying bird bonus was hit by 13 shooters. Stage 4 had another pistol bonus that was hit by 6 shooters. And 6 sharpshooters, including both of our Buckaroo, got both bonuses!

We are planning to rearrange our 25 yard range soon to have a berm down the middle. This will allow us to have movement down range and also include the Texas Star (Death Star) and bird poppers more often. We will keep you informed of any progress.

If anyone would like to take a stab at writing a stage or two in the future, they are welcome. Don't be bashful.

RAMBLINGS...

Thanks again to Ralph, Anita and Cathy for preparing the cowboy grub. We'll probably have another all shot-gun stage again this year.

And we can use some volunteers for set-up at 3pm the Saturday before the match, June 16th. See you down the trail.

TRIVIA QUESTION FOR THE OLD TIMERS

Starting out as a rodeo cowboy and then becoming a stunt man in silent westerns, he later doubled for such stars as John Wayne and Clark Gable, among others, in such dangerous activities as jumping off the top of a cliff on horseback, leaping from a stage-coach onto its runaway team, being "shot" off a horse at full gallop and other such potentially life-threatening activities. He became expert at staging massive events involving livestock, such as cattle stampedes and covered-wagon races, as well as Indians-vs.-Cavalry battles on a grand scale.
